Long time ago my soul and I
Couverse and council held together,
When clear and bright yeath's morning sky
Flushed rosy in the summer weather;
"Soul," said 1, "many a pathway fair,
Waiting thy choice, before thee lies;
Think long, choose well, then proudly dare
Thine namest might to win the prize."

And so we looked, my soul and 1,
And many a fair, false joy refusing,
Beheld at last, serene and high,
The crown of her supremest choosing;
And on it fixed our steadfast gaze,
While the bright, joyous wizard, Hope,
Through all these bounteous summer days
Drew one delicious horoscope. But surimer hours fade fast away, And that dear erown, above my winnin; Here in the lwelight of my day,
Gleam far, as in my bright beg nning;
And now hopes sye's are dim and sad,
And de ubt and grief walk close besi le,

And yet 1 know my soul's true good Liss still, lies ever, there before me; could not turn me if I would, Though clouds and darkness gather o'er And, though I fail and though I die Far from my god, my crown unwen, No meaner star can leinpt my eye That one has known the steadfast sun. CHILLS AND FEVER The preprietor of this celebrated medline justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever affered to the public for the safe, certain, speedy, and permanent enre of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. Herr fers to the entire Western and Southwestern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion, that in no ease whatever will it fuil to cure, it the irections are strictly followed and carried ont. In a greet many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single hotile, with a perfect restaration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if ire use is continued in smaller does for a week or 1wo after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long standing cases. Usually, this medi-cine will not require any aid to keep the howels in good order; should the patient, however, require a cathurtic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULLS VEG.
